Add UTF-8 language support in your scripts

If you are developing a language pack for one of your scripts that does not contain support for special characters and you need UTF-8 support in order for the characters to appear properly, you can add this to your .htaccess file:

```
AddDefaultCharset utf-8
```

Your special characters should appear as desired.

Related articles

- How to enable auto upgrades for the scripts installed via Softaculous
- .htaccess Robots, Redirects, Rewrites and Password Protected Directories
- Create or edit the .htaccess file
- How to use SSI - Server Side Includes
- Restrict access to WordPress admin areas (wp-login.php)